For beginners go to Troggs or Woodys Surf Shop in Portrush and GET ADVICE. Kids use the West Bay at Portrush otherwise go out in light conditions with good supervision.

Wind Surfing

The wave break with a cross off shore at the Runkerry end of the main beach in PBT is magic. Access is down a small lane (looks like the entrance to a private yard of an old cottage) just before the main entrance to Runkerry House. Other beaches, in order, White Rocks Portrush West and East, and Portstewart are pretty good when the wind direction suits, but pale into insignificance when there is a 8 foot face and force 5-6 WSW 'erly.

Walking

Everywhere, check out maps. <https://www.walkni.com/>

A lovely short walk is to go around Ramore Head. This is the large promontory headland at the end of the Portrush peninsula. You can make this quite short or walk on along the rocky shore at Lansdowne Crescent past the Blue Pool to the Arcadia to have coffee and scones at 55 North Café; then home.

Walk to the Whiterocks along the East Strand. 2 miles; on to Dunluce Castle 2 miles; on to Portballintrae, 3 miles; then 10 mile hikes along the shore and cliff from PBT past the Giants Causeway to White Park Bay.

In the other direction Portstewart is a 3 mile sea walk, your reward is a Morelli's Ice Cream
